State Convention Sought by Marion Union; Committee Is Named

Probably that the next annual convention of the Ohio Typographical union will be held in Marion because of the success of a meeting of the Marion Typographical union No. 675, when a committee was named to enter into negotiations for the state session.

The convention is to be held April 12 and 13 and it is expected that between 150 and 200 representatives of the printers' craft from all sections of Ohio will attend.

R. P. Murphy was named as chairman of the general committee. Other members of the committee are John Tracy, T. L. Scott, Fred Hays and George Harkins.

in the hands of the state executive committee. John W. Oles of Springfield is president of the state organization.

Two Youths Being Tried on Bank Robbery Charges

FINDLAY, Jan. 21.—Alley Hays, 17, and Arthur Barker, 22, are on trial here today for the robbery of the Van Lee bank last Dec. 17.
A jury of five women and seven men are hearing the case of the youths.

Thirteen witnesses have been summoned by the state to appear against the two alleged robbers, while the defense rests its hopes on 10 persons who will testify.

Judge George B. Scofield of Marion is hearing the case for assignment of the state supreme court.

WETS ORGANIZE FOR DRIVE ON PROHIBITION

Definite Program Decided Necessary To Fight Against Amendment

PLAN 3 MAJOR STEPS

Foremost Leaders of Movement Opposed to Volstead Act To Be Called

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The wet movement has decided to launch a drive on prohibition which will be a continuation of the work done since the Volstead act was passed.

Deed in that speech, the wet movement has decided to launch a drive on prohibition which will be a continuation of the work done since the Volstead act was passed.

Three Major Steps

Future bloc possibly to hold a series of hearings on prohibition to which the best known wets of the country would be invited. One of these here has been named for legislation.

A legislative committee to be named with authority to seek legislation for "drying" representatives of the home, judiciary or other committee considering bills including Hoover law enforcement commission, program.

Granting of authority to executive committee to provide a dry bloc "bloc" now known as Committee for Modification of Volstead Act.

President Hoover, two members of his cabinet and the "best minds" of the law enforcement commission were down in the prohibition in special sessions as the wet and dry blocs are working for it.

Appeals to Hoover

The president had before him a personal appeal from Rep. S. P.
Deming of New York, a wet argument to halt the government's prohibition policy.

Deming reported the president knew his chemistry, but that he had no science. Mr. Hoover would stop a few of the dry blocs in prohibition, industrial alcohol.

Secretary of the Treasury, Andrew W. Mellon and Attorney General Clegg, were named as members of a committee to study the prohibition problem in connection with the executive committee.

Lock will appear today and Mitchell will appear tomorrow. In addition to the prohibition and the president's policy for increasing the power of the United States government.

Dayton Man Tells Rotary About League of Nations

Meetings at Geneva Are Described by John S. Moore, Regional Director

"Although a League of Nations was in the making before you and I were born, we really consider it as an outgrowth of the World War," John S. Moore, regional director of the League of Nations association for Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee, told members of the Marion Rotary club at their luncheon in Hotel Harding Tuesday noon.

Mr. Moore, who came from Dayton to talk to the club on the outlook for peace and to describe the League as he saw it from the gallery at Geneva, believes that long ago when man began to make a product that he could barter with men in some other section, the need of a league, or agreement was felt.

"The league is more a method than an institution," continued the Dayton man, "and protection and help are among its purposes. So, by an agreement among people across other borders, peace could be possible even in those early times when people went to war and carried away valuable treasures, women of the offending hands and other goods and chattels."

"Today, however, a victorious army can not carry away wealth," said Mr. Moore, "and the need of the great treasure is credit, purchasing power and such. In the world war we learned, more than before, that even the victor is not always a full winner. Look at the condition even now."

Meetings Described
"So, with a league or some such body looking to fair play in boundary lines, in the interchange of commerce, in the guarding of health, in the protection of education—for all these are purposes of the league—we may hope for peace and happiness."

DEGREE IS GIVEN 54

PAST CHANCELLORS

Largest Class Yet To Receive

Grand Lodge Rank Meets

at Delaware

Fifty-four past chancellors of Knights of Pythias lodges in this district received the grand lodge degree at a district meeting held last night in Delaware with representatives of the order from three counties in attendance. Counties taking part were Marion, Delaware and Union.

This class was the largest that has received the grand lodge rank at any of the district meetings held thus far in the state. This is the first year that this degree has been conferred outside the annual grand lodge meetings.

The degree was conferred at last night's meeting by Judge Charles L. Justice of Marion, grand chancellor of the state Pythian organization.

More than 250 lodge members from Pythian lodges in the three counties were in attendance. An exhibition by the drill team of Marion Lodge No. 402 was one of the entertainment features.

It was announced that according to present indications the order in Ohio will register a net membership gain of at least 10 per cent during the present lodge year, thus attaining the goal set by Grand Chancellor Justice at the beginning of his administration.

Proposal for Street Railway Offered

Columbus City Council

COLUMBUS, Jan. 21.—Possibility of an 8-cent cash fare for city street cars for 25 cents, based here today following a proposition which was placed before the city council last night by Ben W. Marr, president and general manager of the Columbus Railway Power & Light Co.

The present fare is six cents cash or five tickets for 25 cents.

If the advanced fare is approved and accepted, the company will spend $1,000,000 for the improvement of cars and tracks and the purchase of 100 new cars. President Marr told members of the utilities committee of the council.

People were unhappy when they thought they had to stand being put on.

International relations for centuries and has colored all diplomatic relationship, but," said the speaker, "it is being outlawed. The subject is bearing that the king's story of war's being a noble opportunity for action, is not right."

The Rotarians were told of the several departments of the league and were given a first-hand description of meetings at Geneva. Mr. Moore based those on information obtained when he spent several weeks there and, seated in the gallery and among the 200 newspapermen, noted the attitude of the public as well as that of the delegates and other representatives. It was the result of his first visit to Geneva that led to his appointment as a regional director. His interest led to many newspaper and magazine articles, and talks.

Chimney Blaze on Kenmore Av.

Breaking a spell which has virtually held the city fire department idle since Jan. 1, a Jordan sedan belonging to T. E. Neek, caught fire at 180 East Fairground st. yesterday afternoon at 2:20 o'clock. The hood of the car was scorched and wires were burned, causing damage estimated at $50. The car of Fire Chief T. J. McFarland answered the call from central fire station.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a hazy, fogged feeling—you should try Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—a substitute for cod-liver oil—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study. Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like cod-liver oil—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and help overcome constipation. Take night and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 50c, 60c.—Adv.

Henry Strause, 89, Succumbs to Attack of Apoplexy; Funeral Thursday

Henry Strause, 89, Civil war veteran, died of apoplexy at 2:35 o'clock this morning at his home, 625 Henry st. He was 11 only days.

In May, 1911, Mr. Strause enlisted in Co. D, 7th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and served the entire four years of the war. He was mustered out of service on July 15, 1865, after taking part in the battle of Gettysburg, the capture of Fort Sumter, and Sherman's march to the sea.

Mr. Strause was born Feb. 14, 1841, in Snyder county, Pa., to John and Sarah Gerhart Strause. His first wife was Martha Louisa Strause, whom he married Dec. 11, 1865, in Wheatstone township. So died Jan. 20, 1902, and in Nov. 1903, Mr. Strause was married again, this time to Lena Vanhook.

In this city, Mr. Strause had three children: Frank Strause, 12, and two daughters, Mary and Helen. The surviving children are: Helen, 17, at home; Frank, 15, at home; Mary, 14, at home; and Helen, 13, at home. The surviving children are: Helen, 17, at home; Frank, 15, at home; Mary, 14, at home; and Helen, 13, at home.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the W. C. Boyd funeral home, South Main st. The body will be taken to the funeral home Thursday morning at 10 o'clock and be in state until time of the services. The Rev. George E. Goss, of Central Christian church, will have charge of the services. The body will be taken to Columbus for burial.

INFLUENZA IS FATAL TO MARION RESIDENT

Mrs. Clara Melching, 65, Claimed at Home on Cheney Ave. Here

Mrs. Clara Melching died of influenza at 10:10 o'clock last night at her home, 807 Cheney av. She was 65 years old.

Mrs. Melching is survived by three children: Jacob Weaver, of St. Joseph, Mo., and Otto Weaver and Charles Weaver, of Marion. She was a member of First United Brethren church.

Her husband, William Melching, whom she married Feb. 8, 1867, in Maryland, preceded her in death 21 years ago. Mrs. Melching was born Oct. 5, 1866, in Delaware county to Mr. and Mrs. Israel Campbell.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the W. C. Boyd funeral home, South Main st., with the Rev. Carl V. Koop, of the United Brethren church, in charge. The body was taken to the funeral home, where it may be viewed until funeral time. Interment will be made in the Maplewood cemetery.

HOPKINS DEFENDING HIS ADMINISTRATION
Hearing of Cleveland City Manager Is Broadcast Over Radio Station

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21.—Making somewhat of a futile gesture, but nevertheless, hoping to defend himself in the eyes of Cleveland's citizenry, William H. Hopkins, suspended city manager, replied this afternoon to the charges preferred by city council as justification for his dismissal.

Literally and figuratively, Hopkins' reply to the charges vanished into thin air. The special meeting of council for the hearing was broadcast over station WJHK as the result of a resolution passed in council last night.

Regardless of the hearing, however, Hopkins' term as city manager will be concluded today, since the council's order removing him will be effective at midnight.

Recreation of the Hopkins' hearing is unique insofar as it is believed to be the first time a city has "sunk" its administration troubles in such a way. The proceedings took place from 1 to 2:15 p. m. Mayor John D. Marshall read the charges with brief explanations, following which Hopkins made his reply.

The hearing here is the last act in Cleveland's most spectacular political upheaval in years—noteworthy, especially, in its bearing upon the city manager form of government.

LOST 14 Pounds of Fat Finder Is Welcome To Have It—I'm Glad To Get Rid of It

Some folks are naturally fat but there's a lot of people who put on pounds of unhealthy fat because they haven't got enough energy to move about to keep it off.

It's not laziness in most cases—but a condition brought about by sluggishness of the internal organs—the liver, bowels and kidneys. As a result, poisons and harmful acids that kill vigor, addilion and energy get into the blood—the whole general tone of the body is lowered and fat accumulates.

Thousands of over-stout men and women find in Kruschen Salts a far better means of poisoning than by taking laxatives or drugs.

The little daily dose of Kruschen Salts keeps the organs functioning properly every day and lifts you with such a feeling of radiant vitality and vigor that before you know it you are fairly "pumping out of your skin" with energy instead of slopping around—and reduction follows as a matter of course. Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts from Bradley's Drug Store or any good druggist—if it doesn't change your entire idea about religion, get your money back.

A jar of Kruschen Salts that will last 4 weeks costs but 85c—take a generous half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning.

GET THAT KRUSCHEN FEELING!
It's the little daily dose that does it.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL TO PUBLISH ANNUAL

Pupils at Central Will Have Their Own Year Book

Central Junior High school will have its own annual publication this year. This announcement was made yesterday afternoon by W. E. Grant, principal. Cecil Galtier, instructor, has been appointed to act as sponsor, and will be assisted by Miss Opal Donahue.

The school will continue to participate in the Harding High school Quiver Annual, but will make its individual annual of a more detailed account of the school life.

A regular staff will be elected sometime this week, with two pupils nominated for each office by the English committee. The project will be continued with the eighth and ninth grade English classes. The staff will be chosen on the basis of the ability of the students desired for nomination.

Names will be submitted to the faculty and the student body for the final choice.

No name for the annual has been chosen as yet, and no definite plan has been worked out. It is expected that the staff will have an opportunity to meet the annual board every day for one period.

It is hoped by those who have started the project that the entire annual will be worked out without taking any time from the regular work of the school. The same pictures used in the Harding Quiver, as well as additional pictures, will be used in the publication of Central Junior. For the past three or four years the student body has asked for an annual and this year the demand seems more acute than in former years. No merchants will be solicited for advertising space.

TOLEDO, Jan. 21.—Police here today were seeking two bandits, one of whom was wounded in an attempted store robbery.

Mrs. E. S. Ward, 42, who was in the rear of the store when two men entered, became suspicious of them and secured a revolver which she concealed in her apron pocket.

One of the men who confronted her said, "We want money," and started toward the cash register.

"I want it, too," Mrs. Ward replied, and then opened fire, wounding one of them. As she attempted to fire again, the man jumped.

The other man quickly assisted his wounded partner to a car which bore a Michigan license and sped away.

WORLDWIDE CHURCH MERGER INTIMATED

Proposal Is Made by Two Pastors of United Canadian Church

COLUMBUS, Jan. 21.—A worldwide consolidation of every Christian Protestant church was intimated for the first day's meeting of the centennial first day's meeting of the centennial pentecostal convention, at which the proposition was made by two pastors of the United Canadian church.

The United Canadian church, they pointed out, is represented by Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists of the old alliance. The church was organized in 1925.

The proposition was made, they said, not a churchman's dream, but as a practical and desirable climax to centuries of religious effort.

The two Canadian ministers, the Rev. George Pilgrom and the Rev. James Endicott spoke to an audience of 3,500 pastors and laymen, who are attending the centennial.

Competition between churches, which results in useless expenditures and general inefficiency, would be abolished by the merger of the churches, they said.

More than 5,000 delegates to the four conventions which comprise the centennial are expected to register before the close of the meeting Friday.

The celebration was arranged by the Ohio Council of Churches, and is sponsoring the eleventh annual Ohio Pastors' convention, the third annual Ohio Conference of Church Women, the second annual Ohio Laymen's convention and the Ohio Youth convention.

Iberia Club Members Plan Birthday Surprise

IBERIA, Jan. 21.—Members of the Embroidery club and their families gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam McCarren Saturday night for a surprise birthday party for Mrs. McCarren's birthday. CITY SCHOOLS NOW IN REVIEW PERIOD

Pupils Settle Down to Task of Preparing for Examinations

No more late hours for high school students, until after the mid-year exams. This ultimatum was not laid down by school officials, but has been taken up by the student body almost in its entirety.

This week marks the general beginning of review work for the examinations which will open Wednesday of next week and continue through next Friday afternoon.

In some classes, reviews started late last week, but most of the classes started back over the half-year's work Monday morning. Reviews will end Tuesday of next week and the final exams will start bright and early on Wednesday morning.

The junior high schools do not have mid-year examinations. At Vernon Heights Junior High school short tests will be given in regular class time, but these will not have the serious aspect of "bunking" or passing to the student taking the tests.

Comparative tests between the work covered last year and this year will be given at Central Junior High school. The same tests will be given this year as those given last year, and a comparison of the grades made. These tests will be given the entire classes.

Columbus' "Leather Bag Bandit" Believed Found; Is Real Jimmy Valentine and No Alias Either

COLUMBUS, Jan. 21.—A real Jimmy Valentine, not an alias, but a real and honest young man, is being held by police here today as the "leather bag bandit" who has been terrorizing filling stations, attendants and grocery store clerks for the past month.

The youth was taken into custody late yesterday and is said to have been identified by four victims of his unique robberies.

The "leather bag bandit" confessed his activities to filling stations and grocery stores, and robbed his victims by placing a leather bag upon the floor and ordering them to place their money in it.

Valentine has been under observation of detectives for more than two weeks, police said.

Apparatus has been invented to test spark plugs under the pressure to which they are subjected in a running motor.

Fashion revels in the soft, enchanting curves of the modern figure. Don't sacrifice that graceful contour by permitting your eyes to be bigger than your stomach. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately. When tempted to treat yourself too well, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, light a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the modern, alluringly-rounded figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Austrian Constitution Ends Bolshevistic Scare

Era of Peace in Central Europe Seen; Attempts To End Political and Economic Chaos Necessitates Radical Reform

Marion Star Staff Writer
MUNICH, Jan. 21.—The revision of the Austrian constitution and the subsequent change in Austria's foreign policy are for more than one reason the most important progress towards national and international pacification made in Europe during the past decade.

The fact that the conflict between Vienna came dangerously close to ending in civil war ought to demonstrate the Catholic provinces and socialist to a somewhat too different world how much ground Bolshevism propaganda had gained in the very heart of Europe and that the hammer and the sickle in the east of arms of Austria are just as much a danger to civilization as those on the bloody banner of soviet Russia.

For those, whom only chance has times of Austria's economic and political turbulence have passed, it may be stated that the class warfare of the Austrian Socialists, more than 90 per cent. of whom confess to Bolshevism, caused the rabble classes and peasants to form an anti-socialist front, the home defense corps, to defend themselves against the terrorism of the Republican Guard (read: proletarian red army).

The attempts to make an end to the political and economic chaos necessitated a radical reform of the Austrian constitution which have altogether too many signs of its birth during a revolution to be of much value to a country, where majority has grown tired of playing the game of Bolshevism. The desperate resistance of the socialists made it necessary to press things to the verge of civil war before the Socialists yielded that further resistance had become hopeless.

It would lead too far to enumerate more than the most important changes the new constitution brought about. Though only some 70 per cent. of the original reforms proposed by the anti-Bolshevik parties were passed by the necessary two-thirds majority of the Austrian parliament, the government succeeded in enforcing all of the vital points. The president of the Austrian republic ceased to be a mere puppet of a hyperbolic parliament. He appointed and, if necessary, dismissed the cabinet, which up to now the executive of parliamentary functions had been the exponent of the nation.

No Longer Autocratic
Although the Socialist rule over Vienna was not broken, it is no longer an autocratic one, for many branches of the municipal administration are subject to the control of the federal authorities. One of the most destructive institutions of "progressive" socialism, the anti-religious schools, in which children are instructed in the spirit of class war and unholy, is going to disappear when the federal board of education assumes the responsibility over the Viennese schools.

As the federal police are to take charge of the education the reforming of the practices of the Socialists are not likely to require the important proportions of the last few years. Though the Socialists had to agree to so large a reduction of their power in Vienna, socialism is still strong in Austria and it would be very dangerous to undertake the economic and political powers of the well-disciplined socialist labor unions.

The new Austrian constitution also provides the disbandment and disarmament of the socialist municipal guards (the skeleton of the Socialist Republican Guard). The Socialists in turn demand the dissolution of the home defense corps. The problem is doubtless the most difficult one of all the reforms the Austrian government will have to carry through. Each of the parties claims the exclusive control of the treaty of St. Germain, but Italy favors the home defense corps and thus it seems unlikely that France or Czechoslovakia will exert diplomatic pressure in that direction. It is to be expected that the Austrian government will not take a very vigorous line in the matter of disarmament, but leave the thorny problem to the local authorities.

The recent elections of the home defense leaders and the founding of a new Styrian home defense corps subsequent to the revision of the constitution make it seem improbable that any Austrian government could attempt the dissolution of the corps before the proposed further reforms, the anti-terror law, the reorganization of the law courts of Vienna, etc., have sufficiently stabilized the economic and political situation to make extra-parliamentary methods unnecessary.

Peaceful Disarmament
The breach in the dam against Bolshevism has been dropped exactly at a time when the new radical course of soviet Russia is preparing a new onslaught upon the economic and social system of Central Europe, the effects of which are already becoming apparent in several of the German industrial centers. But not only for that reason the Austrian reform by far outpaces in importance the character of a merely national Austrian affair, for it brought about a change in Austria's foreign policy.

The removal of the Bolshevistic danger made a rapprochement between Austria and Italy possible. The friendly relations between the two former opponents seems to indicate a new era in Europe's post-war history, the mutual understanding and cooperation, which up to now only existed in the speeches of the European statesmen. The new Austria is willing to let bygones be bygones.

Italy accepts the proffered hand and modifies the rigorous Fascist methods of Italianizing the German-speaking population of Southern Tyrol, or the Alto Adige as it is now called, the first of the abuses, the way has opened between the nations on Europe will be bridged and peace may return at least in one corner of peaceful Europe. The hearty reception of the Austrian reform by the Italian government and press, the proposed visit of the Austrian chancellor to Berlin and Rome and the late change in the Italian embassy at Berlin indicate the possibility of a stabilization of Central Europe, that may inaugurate the solution of problems, which only a few weeks ago had seemed insoluble.

KEY MAN IN LIQUOR INQUIRY DISAPPEARS

Courtney Accused of Bribing Coast Guard, Believed To Have Fled Country

OLIVELAND, Jan. 21.—Search for James P. Courtney, reputed Toledo rum baron and key man in the government's investigation there, was started today after he failed to appear before U. S. Commissioner Martin J. Monahan yesterday to answer a customs charge.

Courtney is accused by federal agents of having bribed a coast guard crew last summer with $25,000. His disappearance has put a crimp into the government's investigation of Lake Erie rum smuggling and the activities of an alleged liquor ring of which he was said to be the chief.

Bondsmen, who posted $5,500 for Courtney, promised to produce the missing defendant by next week and Monahan set next Monday as the date for his appearance.

Current rumors about the federal building here were that Courtney has fled to Canada where he will be safe from extradition.

D. F. Conklin, who was arrested with Courtney and "Handsome" Larry Davidson, at a "bookkeepers' convention" two months ago, also failed to appear before Monahan. His attorney explained, however, that Conklin was ill. Monahan granted a continuance.

Davidson is under indictment by a Toledo federal grand jury. He is expected to be put on trial soon charged with conspiracy to violate the liquor laws.

SCHOOL BURNS

400 Ladies Students Got Vacation When Grade Building Is Destroyed

CADIZ, Jan. 21.—What many a school child wishes has happened, and today 400 students are enjoying a forced midwinter vacation, following the destruction by fire of the Cadiz elementary school here last night.

The fire which was of undetermined origin gained such headway before it was discovered, that firemen were powerless to bring it under control.

The board of education here will not join in the vacation for it is faced with the serious problem of housing the 400 pupils, with no other quarters immediately available.

A COLD

As soon as you realize you've taken cold—take some tablets of Bayer Aspirin. Almost before your head can stuff-up, you feel your cold is conquered. Those aches and pains you felt coming on will soon subside. Relief is almost instantaneous! Even if your cold has gained headway, and your temples throb and your very bones ache, these tablets will bring prompt relief. It is better, of course, to take Bayer Aspirin at the very first sneeze or cough—it will head-off the cold and spare you much discomfort. PARLEY LAUNCHED TO INSURE PEACE

London Naval Conference Opened by King George of England

The outbreak of the World War would see themselves duplicated again.

Urges Respect for Pleaders

He urged that the delegates reach an agreement that could form the basis for a general disarmament conference at a later date, and called upon the nations of the world to respect their pledges under the Kellogg pact.

"This agreement," he said with emphasis, "must put a stop to the competition which has already begun to show itself both in types and numbers of ships."

"If we are not careful we shall once more be involved in feverish competition such as heralded the outbreak of the war in 1914."

Each of the other chief delegates then spoke in turn, setting forth his nation's views on the subject of disarmament and pledging themselves to cover their powers to the fullest to preserve peace in the world by limiting the size of armed forces of the sea.

Tells U. S. Hopes

Secretary Stimson then took the floor and in a clear, strong voice, outlined to the assembled delegates the high hopes which the United States held that the conference would result in a complete success.

He stressed the fact, however, that this could be considered at best only a temporary achievement, which must be followed by further action to the future in order that the changing political complexion of the world could be put to use to strengthen and amplify whatever peace-making agreements evolved from the present parley.

"It feels it is important to emphasize the fact that we do not look upon this effort toward disarmament as final," Secretary Stimson declared. "Naval limitation is a continuous process. We regard disarmament as a goal to be reached by successive steps, by frequent revision and improvement. Human affairs are not static, but are moving and we believe improving. A solution reached today, however perfect, may not respond to conditions at a later date."

See Peace as Necessary

President Franklin D. Roosevelt expressed high hopes that the conference would result in success, but laid particular emphasis on the fact that whatever agreement is reached must be followed by further action to the League of Nations.

Grandi, who spoke on behalf of Italy, called the attention of the delegates to the peace program of Premier Benito Mussolini, and declared that a long period of peace throughout the world is necessary for its fulfillment.

Reijiro Watanabe, premier of Japan, told the conference that his nation was prepared to go the limit in disarmament, consistent with its national security.

A dense fog penetrated the gallery, giving it an eerie aspect, with its flicking lights and its microphones, of which a gold-plated one had been provided for the use of his majesty the king.

In Stalls Early

The delegates and diplomats, representing a total of 47 nations, were in their assigned seats well in advance of the king's arrival. Premier MacDonald, who presided over the assembly, introduced many of the delegates who had not met their co-workers on a social footing. The wives of all the delegates were in attendance, they being the only women in the gallery.

Following the speeches of the principal delegates, representatives of the British Dominions took the floor. J. L. Talbot, Canadian minister of defense, recalled Canadian participation and sacrifices in the World War in the course of his speech.

"Canada united with all the nations here," he said, "in the hope for definite and practical results from this conference. These hopes are intensified because an anxious world awaits a successful outcome."

J. E. Fenton, Australian minister of trades and customs, spoke to a similar effect. He stressed the world's desire for peace and relief from the burden of armaments in order to enable them to pursue nobler aims. He pledged full Australian cooperation in the efforts of the conference.

For Delays Dares

The only really unusual incident of the entire session was the tardy arrival of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, who strode in after the king had concluded his speech of welcome. In

TO DECIDE CONTESTS IN THREE OFFICES

Session in Marion Wednesday Regarded as One of Most Important of Year

ing at 10 a. m. Official count of the vote for next year's grand lodge officers will be the first business taken up. Lunch will be served by the women of Canby Temple, Pathian Sisters, at the noon hour to the visitors and a number of local lodge representatives.

Contests Listed

Installation of the promoted grand lodge officers for the remainder of this year will take place in the afternoon. Important sessions of two grand lodge committees are also scheduled.

Contests to be decided in the official court Wednesday are as follows:

Grand officers and four grand officers from this list of candidates: L. L. Jenkins, of Columbus; Frank Reed, of Chilesville; M. M. Whitfield, of Logan; G. W. Nesbitt, of Fremont. This is regarded as probably the most important of the contests, for the various positions will be eventually become grand officers.

Supreme lodge representatives, three to be elected. These three, who will represent this in the supreme lodge during the next four years, are to be chosen from the following candidates: Fred L. Brand, of Cleveland; James Dunn Jr., of Cleveland; Charles Root, of Newark; A. H. Kunkle, of Springfield; George L. Bohrer, of Columbus. The three elected will attend two supreme lodge meetings, which are held bi-monthly. The next session is to be in Tampa, Fla. this year.

Ellis in Charge

Grand lodge trustees, two to be elected from this list of candidates: Dr. A. P. Tully, of Dover; Harry M. Root, of Springfield; Marion A. Root, of Columbus; Adam Baum, of Dayton.

The three grand lodge officers to be installed for the remainder of this year are F. G. Sparks, of Mt. Vernon, grand master-at-large; Harvey H. Snyder, of Cleveland, grand inner guard; and Robert Featheringham, of Piquette, grand outer guard. Sparks and Snyder were promoted following the death of Judge Agler, former grand master-at-large, and Featheringham was appointed grand outer guard.

Installation ceremonies will be in charge of Edgar W. Ellis, of Columbus, past grand chancellor and recorder of the supreme tribunal.

THREAT OF PENALTY INCREASES TAG SALE

650 Dogs in County Without Licenses; $1 Is Added to Cost

Yesterday's sale of dog tags in the county auditor's office, the last held preliminary to a $1 increase in the price, brought a rush of almost unprecedented proportions for the auditor and his assistants.

Sales for the day brought in more than $800. At the same time, the total number of tags issued for 1936 had reached 5,500. As last year's sales amounted to approximately 4,500, this means that approximately 1,000 dogs in the county are still without credentials for the new year. It also means that each of the 650 dog owners will have to pay an extra dollar.

Women's Board of Hospital Meets with City Officials: May Be Ready by Spring

Work on details of the pathological room to be established at Marion city hospital through the efforts of the Women's Board of the City Hospital and the city was begun in a meeting of the board and city officials this morning.

A list of equipment which the women's board will purchase for the pathological room was drawn and submitted to the hospital committee of the Marion Academy of Medicine for its approval.

A committee of the academy, probably will be asked to draw a schedule of fees for services of the pathological room, according to T. E. Bouma, director of public safety, who has supervision of the hospital.

The room probably will be ready by the end of the year, and will be equipped for the women's board. The city will employ a trained technician to take charge of the room when it has been completed.

Officials hope to have the room in use by spring. In the pathological room, various tests are made which furnish valuable information of the condition of each patient to doctors and hospital officials.

People who want to reach the coast quickly take The California Coast Express, because it is the only extra fast—extra extra fast train to Southern California.

It has no rival.

There is no extra fare on the fast California Limited and Grand Canyon Limited or on the Navajo, Scout and Minutary.

Food Harvey dining service is another distinctive feature of this distinctive railway.

Background.

One hears a vast deal about the value of background as one of the necessities of artistic endeavor. The painter goes abroad to study in Paris where he will assimilate atmosphere and technique. The writer loses himself in the quiet life of a small town to get material for his work. The sculptor goes to Greece to become thoroughly familiar with the masterpieces of Grecian architecture.

Some are sincere in their purpose; others are seeking an excuse to travel and familiarize themselves with life.
Mike O'Brien, a hod-carrier by profession, has been widely acclaimed for his picture,
"Viewing the Oaks," which was the first sold in an exhibit of work of native Colorado artists at the Denver Art museum. O'Brien was inspired, not by the things he had seen in the artistic centers of the world, not by an artificially-pleasing background, or a wide acquaintance with life, but by a firm desire to create. He has never studied, never prattled in an esoteric tone, never done any of the things that the average artist considered necessary. His motivation came wholly from within.

His talent was discovered first in a saloon while he was drawing on a blank card. It did not startle him, but he was interested and continued to find satisfaction in creating images. He did not force himself, but painted only when he felt in the mood.
Ecclered by his wife, hampered by lack of materials and unimpressed with himself, he was unknown until attention was attracted to "Viewing the Oaks," described as a picture "subtly poetic, a bit pathetic and more than a little appealing."

Mike O'Brien, hod-carrier, is now Mike O'Brien, artist. He labored long and gained little acclaim in the first labor, but he has made himself prominent by his dilatory pursuit of the latter. There are several possible reasons, but the most important seems to be that art is not wherever it is found and that successful creations are more often the result of a sincere inner urge than artificial inspiration.

That Two-Mill Levy Again.

The county commissioners manifestly are planning to request at the coming election the two-mill road levy defeated by the voters of the county last fall.

Proceeding last November's election disappointments, regarding the fate of our system of county roadways in the event that the voters failed to authorize a second renewal of the levy, which would raise at least $150,000 a year for a period of five years.

The voters evidently took to the view that the levy had been authorized for two five-year periods and that it was about time that it should be reduced; that they should not be expected to vote $500,000 every five years for the proper maintenance of the county roads, the levy applying to neither the federal nor the state highways, especially so when the gasoline tax and the automobile license were producing approximately $500,000 a year for the same purpose, totaling a total of at least $240,000 annually for county road purposes for a period of five years.

It would seem that, in the face of last year's vote on the levy, the commissioners would take the hint given them by the voters and at least pause for a moment and consider the propriety of reducing the levy, making it a mill and a half, or some such figure, but this idea does not appear to have occurred to them. At least they are quoted as planning to bring the two-mill levy.

If the two-mill proposal lost last year, it is hard to understand how it can be expected to meet with the favor of the voters next fall, especially so as all things subsequent to last year's election have worked to reduce the necessity for a two-mill levy. The automobile license, which may reasonably be expected to produce a larger fund annually than in the past, should bring an average return for the five-year period ranging between $12,000 and $13,000, and County Auditor Thomas was quoted, Monday, as anticipating a return this year of $60,000 from the gasoline tax, which also may be expected to be more and more productive, year by year.

Added to these facts, the voters of the city and county are not unmindful of the addition of approximately $1,500,000 to the tax duplicate, making its total in excess of $90,000,000, of which $50,000,000 represents city valuations and the remaining $40,000,000 the valuations outside the city of Marion.
Figuring the tax on the city duplicate of $50,000,000 at approximately $2.50 on the hundred, the added tax on city properties will be $12,500, while the added tax on the $40,000,000 duplicate outside the city, figured at an average rate of $1.50 on the hundred—a very fair average—will amount to $6,000 more, making an additional $18,500 to come out of the pockets of the taxpayers.

No matter to what purpose the additional revenue may be applied. That there was or would be an addition of about $1,500,000 to the tax duplicate probably was not unknown to the commissioners. Had it been reflected by a reduction in the county rate there doubtless would have been appreciation on the part of the voters, but it was not. Instead the county rate was increased. We do not doubt that the increase was necessary, but the voters very probably will not consider this when they see the tax rate going up with the increase in the size of the duplicate.

Again, a special effort is being made to increase, under the operation of the new law, the return from personally. Unintentionally there will be a marked increase, but there is ground for fear that the reported increased return on personally will not, in the immediate future, reduce the rate on realty.

Under all these circumstances, it would seem the part of wisdom for the commissioners to reduce the size of the levy. If they persist in asking for a two-mill levy, the voters may get the feeling that there is some obstacle in the matter; that the commissioners propose to have their way or lose trying to secure it. Regardless of the fate of the county roads, the voters may feel that a rule-or-rule policy has been adopted and resent it, which would be unfortunate. Unquestionably, a levy should be authorized that the county roads may be properly maintained, but it is to be questioned if there is necessity for a two-mill levy.

Rest Cure in Dementia Praecox.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

It is very hard to see a young person, who has been well and strong, normal and cheerful in his mental processes, suddenly develop some unusual and disturbing symptoms. The things which used to make him happy may seem now to bore and even irritate him. He may develop "strange ideas" when he will break furniture, swear and not like a demon.

The mental diseases of youth are grouped under the general term "Dementia Praecox." This condition rarely attacks one past twenty-five years of age. It is associated with the development period of life.

There is a weakness of the mental processes and perverted ideas. At times there may be great mental excitement, and at others periods of depression and sadness. Occasionally there is mental derangement, and then times when the mind is confused.

Sometimes he may recite one line of poetry for hours at a time. He will perform the same act over and over.

The marked difference between the feeble-minded youth who has always been weak-minded and the youth with dementia praecox is shown by the history of the case. In dementia praecox the onset may be sudden. Shock, fright or prostration, either bodily or mental in origin, may be followed by this disability. In other cases its onset is gradual and the course is progressive.

This acute and sudden type is the most hopeful of cure. It may take time, but recovery comes. The slow type is more serious.

If there is found to be a lowered resistance from some discoverable cause the prospect of recovery is good. For instance, if the young person has been ill or overworked removal of the existing cause will go far toward restoring his health.

Recent work of physicians in these cases has made us more hopeful of their outcome. They must be studied with particular reference to social and mental factors, the course is progressive or other parts of his body. When the physical basis is found recovery follows the removal of the primary trouble.

Careful examination of the blood and all of the secretions are necessary. Until every test has been made to reliable estimate of the probabilities can be attempted.

The rest cure is a good thing. Rest in bed, proper nourishment, baths, massages, change of scene are all important. More important is the finding of the fundamental physical trouble and getting rid of it.—Copyright, 1930, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

know that a politician of real experience and sagacity would know how to use big promises instead of cash."

Editorial Opinion.

AFTER TEN YEARS OF PROHIBITION.

Floods of century in congress and at mass meetings held by friends and other mass meetings held by foes of constitutional prohibition and Volstead Jones enforcement statutes unmistakably attest the fact that the great social and moral experiment remains an experiment.

The drys are celebrating the end of the first decade of federal prohibition and stalling its benefits. The wets are pointing with alarm to the fruits of prohibition which cause disquiet even to those who approve existing enforcement methods.
Meanwhile persons who have tried to keep their minds open and so have formed no hard and fast judgment on the matter do not find anything very new in the latest impassioned contributions to an apparently interminable discussion.

Congress and various state legislatures in the next few months may be expected to decide much due to prohibition—and waste most of the time so devoted. More light and impartial treatment of ascertained facts are needed if the debate is to produce any noteworthy result. The greatest service which good citizens can perform at this stage is helping to clear up the prohibition tangle so to encourage objective study of the entire question and a patient hearing of the arguments on both sides. Closed minds and professed vituperation are to be avoided. Nothing beneficial can come from either the one or the other.

Meanwhile it is surprising to find dry leaders here and there emphasizing the mistake of too much dependence on legal force, and the urgent necessity of turning over more to the moral aspects of the great issue. The cause of prohibition has suffered grievously from intemperance in speech and in legislative action. If reason and experience rightly interpreted fail to sustain federal prohibition, penalties and threats of penalties most assuredly will not suffice to establish it.

Force alone is no solution of a complex social question. The appeal by each side in the controversy henceforth should be chiefly to common sense and the lessons of actual experience soberly analyzed and fairly presented.—Chicago News.

LABOR AND CONGRESS.

The American Federation of Labor has begun a wide and extensive campaign to "win" the national congress. President Green announces that he will soon lay down this general program for nonpartisan political activity in the coming and future campaigns.

This is the traditional policy of Samuel Gompers, who believed in rewarding those who have proved friendly to labor, and to punish its foes. And this regardless of party labels.

American labor has made phenomenal progress, but this progress has been advanced through the functioning and assistance of the two great parties of the union. Labor, perhaps, has the right to seek for friends and proper power in congress.
There have always been forthcoming. Labor legislation in this country transcends any legislation of the kind in any country on earth in its profitable relation to the mass who toil. So long as the F. L. shall recognize the interdependent rights and interests of all industrial and business activity, just so long will it succeed in carrying forward labor's true interests. But if this reannouncement of labor policy indicates a willingness and intention to add another to the unfortunate bloc movements of the country, then it will and should fail.

We have enough and to spare already of bargaining behind the senate and house; another will not be appreciated, nor will it serve the interests of the country nor that of labor in any true sense. A demand for labor party in government would be as a dominant agricultural party or a party representing any other single interest.

For example, the Federation of Labor denounces it is against any form of prison labor, when it is the unanimous opinion of prison and social authorities that idleness in prisons chiefly is responsible for prison troubles, particularly of the kind which which the state of New York is at present wrestling. The effect of competition of this class of labor on the average legitimate labor of the country is so pitifully small and unimportant that it should be regarded as negligible.
If men in prisons do not work, then trouble arises, quicker, seriously. American labor holds the country's respect, but an American labor bloc, or anything like it, will not receive kindly consideration in the contemplations of American democracy.

Ghetto of Sanaa.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Over in the Near East may still be found many of the bizarre and unusual which, so many travelers assert, has gone from the world with the development of time-spanning methods of communication—the radio, airplanes, ocean greyhounds, railways which push their steel fingers into all of the out-of-the-way places of the earth. They are right—to a degree. The world has lost much of its picturesque as "civilization" tends to be universal.

I am thinking now of Sanaa, the Moslem capital of Yemen which borders the Red sea in southwestern Arabia.
The Moslem city of Sanaa is interesting in itself. The wealthier merchants and the governing officials have beautiful homes, gardens and gardens and attended by their many servants, lead a life which is full of happiness—those pleasures which they have known for generations, the eating of ghali, their feasts.

But it is of the Ghetto, the Jewish quarter that I want to tell you.
The first thing which strikes one in the Ghetto is the fact that all of the buildings are only two stories high. It is the law of the city that the Jews, in their Ghetto can not build houses of greater height. That distinction is reserved for the Moslems, the ruling class. But as one progresses further another thing slowly takes shape in the consciousness. That is the cleanliness. We of America are used to the "ghettos" of the large cities, such as New York. These are are clean, well-kept, streets, lacking in the shadows of tenements from the windows of which bulge piles of beddian, multi-colored washing. Above all is quiet—angry voices, shouts, children crying or yelling.

According to the Sanaa law, the Jews must dress in a prescribed manner. The men wear blue smocks, reaching to the knees. Over this they sometimes wear a robe and sash. Their heads are shaved with the exception of short braids of hair which fall down on each side just in front of the ears. Still, these are ancient customs. The women wear pale pink, like the Moslem women, gathered at the ankles. The robes which they wear are comparatively short, reaching just below the knees. Invariably they are blue. They are not veiled but throw a big kerchief or silk print over their heads and frequently, while on the streets, they hold this across the face in a manner which becomes most coquettish.

The Jewish-Moslem situation in this part of Arabia is queer. Both the Jews and the Moslems are of the same racial group. It is case of brother-sistering brother, but, by and large, they are content and it would take much to drive them from their native Yemen.

Ohio's New Prison District Plan To Go into Effect
Feb. 1

A new parole system to become effective in this state on Feb. 1 places Marion county in what will be known as district No. 2, to be supervised by L. W. Woodring, Marshall, as parole officer.

Among other counties in this district with Marion county are: Min-now, Crawford, Richland, Wyandot and Delaware counties.

Hardin county is included in district No. 3, with C. T. Evans,

Vanhuschville, as parole officer.

Union county is in district No. 4, with

INSTALLATION HELD

Officers and Teachers of Trinity Church Begin Duties

All officers and teachers of Trinity Baptist Sunday school were installed Sunday morning during the regular Sunday school session. A pledge of allegiance to office was taken by the officers and teachers while standing in front of the pulpit. In turn, a pledge of loyalty to the officers and teachers was taken by the student body. The Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor, conducted the service and followed it with a prayer of consecration.

In the past year the six-point exercise of attendance, offering, present on time, present with a Bible, staying for church and studying the Sunday school lesson, has been tried each Sunday in beginners, primary and junior departments.

Biennial anniversaries of all members are given recognition with public birthday offerings.

A new project is being launched in the intermediate and senior departments and will include the other departments. Visiting contests for the marking of enthusiasm in both old and new members to be present for Sunday school will begin the first study in February.

The class making the most visits in proportion to its enrollment will receive a banner.

First sweeping HOLLYWOOD — then BROADWAY — and now the EUROPEAN CAPITALS Lux Toilet Soap cares for the loveliest complexions in the world

You can keep your skin exquisitely smooth just as 9 out of 10 glamorous screen stars do . . .

LONG ago our own charming Hollywood stars discovered that for attractiveness a girl must have soft, smooth skin—and discovered that Lux Toilet Soap keeps the skin at its very loveliest.

Then the famous Broadway stage stars became equally enthusiastic about this delicately fragrant white soap. Never have they been more grateful to it than since so many of them are playing in the talkies!

And now—in France, in England, in Germany—the European screen stars have adopted Lux Toilet Soap.

In Hollywood Alone 511 Lovely Actresses Use It

Every girl who appears under the blaze of the great close-up lights must have flawless skin. And the talkies have so many, many close-ups!

In Hollywood alone, of the 521 important actresses, including all stars, 511 are devoted to Lux Toilet Soap. And every one of the great film studios has made it the official soap for their dressing rooms.

At the request of the Broadway stage stars, it has been placed in their dressing rooms by 71 of the 74 legiti-mate theaters, and by other leading theaters all over the country.

"No girl can be attractive unless she has the very loveliest skin." This is the conclusion of 45 leading Hollywood directors who pick the girls who will most surely win popularity on the screen.

Small wonder, then, that Lux Toilet Soap has become the chosen soap of the world's most famous stars!

If you aren't already using this delightful soap, order several cakes—today. Its caressing lather will keep your skin lovely, just as it keeps the skin of the famous stars.
